Three Bowfishing Tournaments Permitted on Upper Mississippi River National Wildlife and Fish Refuge

The Upper Mississippi River National Wildlife and Fish Refuge (Refuge) has been notified of the issuance of fishing tournament permits to bowfishing groups in Wisconsin and Iowa. The Wisconsin Bowfishing Association (WBA) will host a night-time bowfishing tournament in Upper Mississippi River Pools 4, 5, and 5A on June 11, 2016 and in Pools 8, 9, and 10 on July 30, 2016. Both tournaments hosted by the WBA have been permitted by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WIDNR).

The Bowfishing Association of Iowa (BAI) has received a permit from the Iowa Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) to host a night-time bowfishing tournament in Pool 10 on July 23, 2016. WBA President Jeb Verhalen and BAI President Zac Miller both spoke with Refuge Manager Sabrina Chandler to discuss tournament “red zones” which are areas to be avoided by tournament participants. They also discussed concerns that were raised in response to a large scale bowfishing tournament held in July 2015 on Pools 9, 10, and 11. Mr. Verhalen and Mr. Miller have taken appropriate measures to ensure that tournament participants are aware of the red zones, Refuge and State regulations, and that participants are considerate to other recreational users of the Refuge.

Bowfishing is allowed on Refuge lands in accordance with State law. Currently, fishing tournaments are regulated through the respective State DNRs and in compliance with a compatibility determination completed through the Refuge Comprehensive Conservation Plan in 2006.
